California is known as the Golden State due to its rich history of gold mining.

How the Golden State Found its Name

- California was named after the Greek goddess Calypso, who wore gold jewelry.
- Gold was discovered in California in 1848, leading to the Gold Rush.

Mining in California Today

- California is still producing gold, with approximately 20 tons yearly.
- The Monarch Gold Mine in Calaveras County is one of the state's largest producers.
- Gold mining is a significant contributor to the state's economy.

Imperial County: California's Golden District

- Located in southeastern California, Imperial County is known for its gold mining.
- The area attracts tourists and gold prospectors.

Conclusion

- California's mining history is a testament to its rich heritage.
- The state continues to harness its natural resources, adapting to modern mining techniques.

---

Mining in California

- Today: Silver, gold, and other precious metals are still produced.
- Yesterday: Gold rush of 1848 led to the state's fame.
- Tomorrow: Sustainable mining practices are being explored.

Imperial County

- Known for its gold mining.
- A popular destination for tourists and prospectors.

---

More Mining Resources

- Website: More information available at www.bureauofmining.ca.gov
- Contact: Bureau of Mining and Reclamation, State of California.